TEXAN EXPECTS TO WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Del Rio Man Thinks He May Prove the Hope of the White Race.

Another hope of the white race has been discovered. He is Homer Smith, a native Texan, who hails loudly from Del Rio. Homer, unlike the Homer of old, took the vanished care for San Angelo and from thence to Goldfield, where he is to train under James J. Corbett. There is but one James J. Corbett, Pauline, for the fight of the next century, to be the white man's hope and the defender of the race which has furnished all of the kings, policemen and other rulers of men during the last few decades.

Homer, that first name sounds so much more like a conqueror of world's champions than does Smith—plain Smith. Homer, as was being said before the digression, is to seek new worlds to conquer after he has had 18 months of training under the wily, but not Dr. Wiley, James J. The local papers down Del Rio say that Homer boy is some scrapper in his own right, that he holds the championship of Val Verde county and has been on the same train with Battling Nelson once. He expects to meet some of the best pugilists in the country, he says. Jim Corbett is to act as the middle man and the introduction is to be an informal one and without the usual pugilistic introduction with the padded mitt attachment.

Homer last weighs 225 pounds just before breakfast, is 5 feet, 11 1/2 inches tall, is 24 years old and is sound in mind and limb. Just how he expects to whip Johnson is not stated, but it is understood that James J., the gabby one, is to slip it to him out on the mesquite mesas of Goldfield how to turn the trick, just as he did to James J. Jeffries, a pugilist of former days, who failed to get a round trip and consequently could not come back.

Without wishing to discourage Homer in his desire to acquire fame, fortune and a cauliflower ear, it is herein humbly suggested, that James J. Corbett, upon whom the Del Rio diamond in the rough is pinning his faith, is not nor has not been in Goldfield, being no nearer that pugilistic seaport than little old New York, where he is doing a blackface turn with some modern minstrel troupe or other.

NEW FOOTBALL GUIDE

Spaulding's official football rules for 1910 containing the new football rules, which are now causing so much discussion among college players and coaches has been issued. The rules are edited by Walter Camp and contain a complete explanation of the new rules and a large number of pictures of the 1909 teams.

Famous Twirler In Action

Big Ed Walsh, the great twirler of the Chicago White Sox, who recently performed a notable baseball feat in pitching against the Boston Red Sox in Chicago. The big twirler struck out 15 men in a regulation nine inning game, while the White Sox won by a score of 1 to 0. Billy Sullivan, the star catcher, failed to hold out of Walsh's third strike on a batter and had to throw his man out at first. Walsh's performance is only one strike out short of the American league record established by Rube Waddell.

TEXAS LEAGUE NOTES

By Horace H. Shelton.

Wentzell, who will play third base for Detroit, played third base on the San Antonio high school team during 1907 and 1908. He then played a part of the season of 1908 with the San Antonio league team. He went from here to Wichita in 1909. In the first professional games he played in San Antonio out of four times at the bat he got three clean safeties and one home run.

Houston is playing classy ball despite the team's crippled condition and promises to give the pennant winners a hard fight.

New Shreveport has the pennant fever. The fans of that city are raising a bonus to be presented to the team if it wins the pennant.

Duguey of the Waco team, sold to the St. Louis Browns, has been turned down since then he has been sold to New Orleans in the Southern league and has gone to that city. He will be in uniform there within a few days.

Clifton, a bush leaguer, has joined the Oklahoma City team. He has not made any showing in the game he has played so far.

Doak Roberts and Otto Sens, owners of the Houston team, are back from a scouting expedition. While making no names public they assert they landed some mighty good material for the Buffaloes' next season. Hill will probably continue to manage the team.

The downfall of the Oklahoma City team is due to the frost made by Jay Anderson this season. Last season he took the team when it was down and out and by a sensational split finished second in the race. Big things were expected of him this year. He failed to deliver the goods and as a result the team patronage went to pieces. The franchise can be had for the asking, it belonging to the league.

Matticks, an outfielder secured by Dallas recently, failed to make good and has been released.

Torrey, one of Dallas' best, will be in the game this week. He has been laid up with a sore arm.

Tesreau for Shreveport is pitching grand ball. It is the fine twirling staff of that club which is bringing it into the pennant race. The plans are, batting, they are the best in the league.

Reumont is getting busy in an effort to break back into the Texas league in the place of Oklahoma City. The business men offer to back the team.

There is still some discussion of taking an all star Texas team to Cuba at the end of the season. The plans are expected to assume definite shape this week.

Rogers, the big six footer, who pitched such sensational ball for San Antonio for the first three weeks after he joined the team, is now being beaten about two or three games. His average is now about .500. He will probably not end the season with that good an average to his credit.

Yantz, with the San Antonio team, has played behind the bat, first, second, third bases and shortstop in the past month and has done brilliant work in all of the places. At the same time he is crowding the league for place in batting honors.

and the home team won, 4-3. Second baseman, McConnell turned his ankle and quit.

A 7 to 6 victory for Philadelphia over Cleveland took 12 innings at the Quaker city Monday. A pass and two errors did it. Hitting was fierce, 16-15.

Denver was joyous Monday when its team beat the champions at Des Moines, 6-1. The visitors made 11 and the leaders only 4.

Hooper's batting directly caused Boston's victory over St. Louis at the Beanburg Monday. The right fielder made a home run, two three baggers, and a single in as many times up.

Detroit scored four runs in the ninth at New York Monday. One hit, an error, four passes, a hit baseman and a balk beat the home team, 8-5.

Knetzer, of Brooklyn, had two fingers of his pitching hand injured at Cincinnati Monday. He retired in the fourth for that reason.

At Saratoga Monday, Cherryola, the 9 to 5 favorite, easily won the Vassar selling stakes, the feature of the card. Follie Levy and Mexicana set a terrific pace, leading by 10 lengths to the upper turn. Here, however, Benzohoten began crowding Cherryola along and, coming with a rush, she took the lead the last sixteenth and won handily.

PERSONALS.
